PREFACE.

In soliciting the patronage of the inhabitants of New York and its vicinity, W. Brotherhead & Co. deem it necessary to state that no competition with other Libraries is intended, believing that with a population of a million there is ample room for all; the growing increase of such a vast population rendering such a Library a public necessity. Every Library has its peculiarity. Our Library claims, and it is believed justly, that in current Literature it is not excelled, if equalled, by any other Library either in New York or elsewhere. W. Brotherhead, who has had an experience of twenty years in dealing with Books, went to Europe for the express purpose of making such a selection as cannot be obtained here. It may be necessary to state that of the thousands of new Books published annually in England, and especially of novels, not one-tenth are republished here. A special feature with us is to supply this deficiency, though we shall purchase all of merit that issue from the American press. We also give twice the number of Books which any other Library gives to each subscription. The French and German Departments, numbering between two and three thousand volumes, will be constantly receiving accessions. All the leading Foreign and Domestic periodicals will be constantly received.

Our highest ambition is to make the Library worthy of the support of persons of the most cultivated and fastidious taste. No vile or trashy flippant Books will be admitted into it. A generous patronage is respectfully solicited.
